Re: Passing of Alan L. Armitage, First Director of Hunterdon County Communications

Hunterdon County Communications regrets to announce the passing of Alan L. Armitage, our first Director. Alan served as Director of Hunterdon County Communications from its creation in 1975 until his Retirement in 1993. During his years of service, Alan was an instrumental leader in overseeing many successful projects, including Hunterdon County becoming New Jersey's First County-Wide 9-1-1 System in 1976.

Alan served as APCO International President from 1976-77 and was active in the Atlantic, Ohio and Colorado APCO Chapters. He chaired the 2005 Annual Conference in Denver.

Aside from a tour of duty for the U.S. Army, 1964-67, Al spent a majority of his career in service to Hunterdon and Monmouth Counties.

At this time, a Memorial Service is scheduled later this Spring.

May He Rest In Peace.
