History of the Court Street Park

Back in 1901, this park was an unattractive lot that was used as a dumping ground for rubbish and a storage place for old wagons. Mrs. Sara Elizabeth Temple, then the president of the Flemington Woman's Club, organized a Village Improvement Committee. This committee obtained support from several local businesses and community organizations to improve the site into a community park. Work began in 1902. Trees, benches, and other material to beautify the area were all donated to the project. The bandstand was moved to the center of the park from a nearby site. It was vandalized in 1973 and was completely rebuilt in the following years. The Flemington Woman's Club still meets in the building adjacent to the park.
