Each year at its Annual Conference, the Sustainable Raritan River Collaborative gives awards to recognize outstanding achievement in efforts to revitalize our region, restore and protect our resources and promote our area as a premiere place to live, work and raise a family.

We are now accepting nominations for individuals, businesses, organizations, municipalities or counties that has helped make the Raritan region a better place to live and work. Make a nomination today by sending the following nomination information via email to the Awards Committee at raritan@ejb.rutgers.edu. Please include: (1) the nominee's name and contact information; (2) a description of the activities that support your candidate for recognition; (3) photographs, articles or other media to support the nomination; and (4) contact information of person making nomination (see form on 2nd page).

The 9th Annual Sustainable Raritan Conference is produced by the Sustainable Raritan River Initiative, a joint initiative of the Edward J. Bloustein School of Planning and Public Policy and the School of Environmental and Biological Sciences at Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey, that works with the university and other Raritan River, Basin and Bay stakeholders in a collaboration for "science informing planning informing policy".
